Benefits of Membership

Aside from access to our extensive resources and active network in the planning industry, NYPF members receive discounted rates on training, publications, and the annual conference. As a member, you'll be kept up-to-date with announcements, updates, and our monthly newsletter: "Planning News."

NYPF's website – www.nyplanning.org – keeps members informed by offering current land use information relevant to every community across New York State. There's a "members only" section on our website that provides training modules on SEQR, planning board and ZBA duties, site plan review, comprehensive planning, and other essential topics. The NYPF website is another resource used to keep in touch with and provide services for our members. All of the training opportunities that NYPF offers, both in-person and online, can fulfill annual training requirements.

The NYPF Annual Conference, one of the premier training programs in the state, offers certification credit to planning board and ZBA members, code enforcement officers, planners and attorneys. With in-depth sessions on both basic and advanced topics. Presenters discuss relevant issues sustainability, design standards, agriculture and resource protection, and downtown revitalization. The conference is also a place for attendees to exchange ideas and information with their peers from communities and organizations across the state.

Members are always welcome to call or e-mail our office to request assistance with topics of concern to their municipality. Examples of technical assistance include planning and zoning audits, preparation of RFPs, community outreach, facilitation of comprehensive plan workshops, and zoning code reviews.
